Digital Technologies - Why Now?

Our experience of working with schools tells us that school leaders and their teams are at varying stages on their journey towards succesful integration of technology into the classroom and the school community.

The place of digital technologies in K-12 education in Australia is recognised both in the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers and the Australian Curriculum.

School leaders understand the potential of digital technologies to play a key role, alongside traditional pedagogies, in enhancing and enriching the experiences of students and teachers.

As far as the use of digital technologies in schools goes, we have gone beyond the tipping point. There is no turning back.

Wherever you are on your journey we can help you to define your goals and achieve measurable success.

We can help your school to develop, drive, and sustain an integrated plan to ensure learning success witah digital technologies.
